Implicit Bias & Debiasing

Wednesday, January 17, 2018 • 12:15-1:15 p.m.

Beus Center for Law and Society, Room 544

111 E. Taylor Street, Phoenix, AZ 85004

Professor Sarah E. Redfield is a tenured member of the faculty at the University of New Hampshire School of Law. Her primary teaching areas are education and administrative law.

In 2004, Governor Baldacci appointed Professor Redfield to represent the State of Maine on the Education Commission of the States.

Professor Redfield is a nationally known author and presenter. Her book, Thinking Like a Lawyer: An Educator's Guide to Legal Analysis and Research, was published in 2002 by Carolina Academic Press. She has published law review and bar articles on threatening speech, the convergence of law and education and K20 school reform. This year she will be presenting at meetings on the Education Law, including the annual national Education Law Conference, the Virginia Education Law Conference and others.

Before coming to UNH School of Law, Professor Redfield practiced civil, environmental and agricultural law for the state of Maine. She served as Assistant Attorney General in the Civil Division of the Maine Attorney General's Office and as Associate Commissioner for the Department of Agriculture, Food Rural Resources. During this time, in addition to writing Vanishing Farmland (Lexington Books), she published articles on environmental and land use issues, with particular emphasis on farmland and pesticide use.

This may qualify for 1.0 general or ethics CLE credit.

Free and open to the public. Food will be reserved to those who RSVP at ilp@asu.edu.
